

Price of Long-Span Cable Trays in Tunnels

AI Overview

Long-span cable trays for tunnels typically range from $100 to $500 per meter, depending on material, load capacity, and design specifications. Long-span cable trays are designed for heavy-duty applications, supporting large cable bundles over extended distances with fewer support points, which reduces installation time and ensures neat cable routing. They are commonly used in tunnels, technical centers, and industrial facilities where high load capacity, fire resistance, and corrosion protection are critical.

Key Features Affecting Price

- Material: Steel (pre-galvanized or hot-dipped), aluminum, or reinforced composites. Hot-dipped galvanized trays offer higher corrosion resistance and durability, which increases cost.
- Construction Type: Perforated trays improve ventilation and reduce weight, while unperforated trays provide extra protection against dust, dirt, and electromagnetic interference.
- Load Capacity: Trays designed for heavier cable bundles or long spans require thicker gauge materials and reinforced structures, raising the price.
- Accessories: Bends, connectors, covers, and branches add to the overall cost, especially for complex tunnel layouts.

Price Range

- Standard long-span trays: Approximately $100–$250 per meter for medium-duty steel or aluminum trays suitable for moderate loads.
- Heavy-duty or specialized trays: Can reach $300–$500 per meter for high-load, fire-resistant, or corrosion-protected systems designed for tunnels and industrial environments.

Bulk orders: Large-scale tunnel projects may reduce per-meter costs through volume discounts, but installation complexity and accessories can offset savings.

Recommendations

- Consult suppliers like Eibabo, Legrand, or Direct Channel for tailored solutions and quotes based on tunnel length, cable load, and environmental conditions.
- Ensure trays meet fire safety, corrosion resistance, and mechanical strength standards for underground installations.
- Factor in installation costs, including supports, risers, and labor, which can significantly affect the total p...
