

What is a suitable price per meter for cable management racks

AI Overview

Cable management racks typically range from $15 for small desk-mounted bars to over $200 for heavy-duty ladder racks. Desk and Server Rack Cable Management Bars 1U or 2U metal cable management bars for standard 19" racks usually cost $15-$50 depending on depth and material (e.g., Dynamix PP-CM001 or PP-CMM55) as listed on PBTech. These bars often include cage nuts and protective caps, and are suitable for organizing cables in server racks or network cabinets. Ladder and Heavy-Duty Racks Cable ladder racks designed for data centers or network closets are more robust, supporting up to 187 lbs and fully welded for heavy-duty use. Prices for these systems typically start around $150-$250 per section, depending on width, length, and accessories. These racks allow for overhead cable management and can be customized with additional accessories to create a complete cabling solution. Online Retail Options Amazon offers a variety of cable management racks for desks and server installations, with prices ranging from $15-$100 depending on size and features. Newegg provides options compatible with multiple rack types (2-post, telco, relay racks) and supports standard mounting threads, with prices generally in the $20-$80 range. Summary Small desk-mounted or 1U/2U rack bars: $15-$50 Mid-range server rack cable organizers: $50-$100 Heavy-duty ladder racks for data centers: $150-$250+ When selecting a cable management rack, consider rack compatibility, depth, weight capacity, and whether it includes mounting hardware. Checking current listings on Amazon, Newegg, PBTech, or Rackmount Solutions will provide the most up-to-date pricing and availability.
